Dear Parents

World Book Day

This year World Book Day, the biggest annual celebration of books and reading for children in the UK, is on Thursday 1st March 2012.

All children are invited to celebrate this very special day by coming to school dressed as a favourite book character. As I know the stress that fancy dress can cause, this letter is going out now - to give plenty of time to prepare!

Last years World Book Day model challenge was such a huge success that we are going to repeat it! However we are placing a size restriction on this years entries! So if your child would love to make at home (maybe on a rainy day in half term!) a model based on a favourite book, it would be fantastic if they could bring this into school on the morning of Thursday 1st March. Please ensure that the overall dimensions are no greater than 40 centimetres. We can then display all the models in the hall so that the children can visit and look at these during the day.

There will be various book-related activities throughout out the day, which all the children will partake in. Please encourage your child to bring in some favourite books with them on this day.

We look forward to seeing all the amazing book characters and models!

Thank you for your support
